Abstract

In this paper, using the method called ‘Prosopography’, we collected biographical data of the staff members in educational studies in the Faculty of Education of Tohoku University and its forerunner Institutions in order to compare them to each other and to find the common characteristics and differences between groups and chronological periods. We concentrated on the course of their academic life and based our analysis on published materials concerning the case of Tohoku.

I History of the institutions

1. The Faculty of Law and Literature of Tohoku Imperial University and the Faculty of Literature of Tohoku University

The Faculty of Law and Literature (FoLaL) of Tohoku Imperial University (ThIU: Touhoku Teikoku Daigaku) was an institution established on 29 August 1922 as the first Faculty of Law and Literature and the third faculty for literature sciences in the imperial universities in which a chair of educational studies was founded on 16 May 1923. After World War II, as the result of the reform of the Law of Imperial University (Teikoku Daigaku Rei) to the Law of National Universities (Kokuritsu Sougou Daigaku Rei) of 30 September 1947, the name of the university was changed to Tohoku University (ThU: Touhoku Daigaku) and a new three faculties (Faculty of Law, Faculty of Economics and

2. The Faculty of Education of Tohoku University

The FoE of ThU is an institution which was based on the former chair of educational studies of the FoL of ThU when the Law of National Universities was repealed and the Law of Establishment of National Schools (Kokuritsu Gakkou Secchi Hou) was enforced on 31 May 1949. The FoE of ThU was unique in the respect that students studied in the FoE only in last two years of the four-year curriculum at the ThU. In first two years, they belonged to the Branch Faculty of Education and Liberal Arts (BFoEaLA: Bunkou-Kyouiku-Kyouyoubu) as the successor institution of Miyagi Normal School. When the first students started studying in the third year in 1951, the FoE was finally embodied. In this period, dean of the FoE was T. Hosoya who had been chair of educational studies at the FoLaL and the FoL and belonged to the BFoEaLA from 1949 to 1951. The Graduate School of Education (GSoE) with Master’s and Doctor’s course was founded on 1 April 1953.

The FoE of ThU was sometimes misunderstood as a successor institution of Miyagi Normal School and as the forerunner institution of Miyagi University of Education (Miyagi Kyouiku Daigaku). However, the FoE of ThU as the successor of the chair of educational studies of both the FoLaL of ThIU and the FoL of ThU and the Miyagi University of Education as the successor institution of Miyagi Normal School, the BFoEaLA (founded on 12 July 1949), the North Branch Faculty (NBF: Kita-Bunkou) (founded on 1 April 1957), the East Kawauchi Branch Faculty (EKBF: Kawauchi-Higashi-Bunkou) (founded on 1

Though the BFoFoE was in charge of the programs for teacher education from 1964, it existed just shortly and closed the programs in 1967 and 1968. The last student of BFoFoE graduated in March 1971. In April 1973, the Centre for University Extension (Daigaku Kaihou Centre) was established in which also Master’s and Doctor’s course of GSoE was founded.

Through an analysis of the materials that were collected in accordance with the Suzuki (2018)\(^2\), 29 academic staff members in educational research were identified in the FoE of ThU as shown in Figure 4.

II Biography of the staff members

1. The Faculty of Law and Literature (the Faculty of Literature) of Tohoku Imperial University

Sukeichi SHINOHARA (篠原助市, male, born 6 June 1876 in Ehime Prefecture and died 2 August 1957) studied at Ehime Normal School from October 1893 to March 1898. He worked as a teacher at an elementary school in Ehime Prefecture (6 April 1898–) and as a headmaster and teacher at another elementary school (15 June 1900–). He studied at Tokyo Higher Normal School (Toukyou Koutou-Shihan-Gakkou) from 1902 to 31 March 1905 after studying at its preparatory course from 1901. He then continued studying at its graduate course from April 1905 to 31 March 1906 and entered an elective course of Faculty of Literature of Tokyo Imperial University in September 1905. However, he worked again as a teacher at Fukui Normal School (April 1906–) and then studied at FoL of Kyoto Imperial University from September 1913 to 13 July 1916 and at its GS from 1916 to 1919\(^3\). In this period, he worked also as an junior assistant (Fukushu) of the FoL (11 November 1916–), a temporary teacher of Kyoto Normal School (18 September 1917–21 September 1918) and a lecturer of Nara Higher Normal School for Female Teachers (Nara Jyoshi-Koutou-Shihan-Gakkou) (April 1918–March 1919). In 1919, he moved to Tokyo in order to take a position of a lecturer (April–May 1919) at Tokyo Higher Normal School and then a professor until October 1923. He studied in Germany, France and the U.S. as a ministerial student (5 April 1922–September 1923). Since a chair of educational studies was established at the FoLaL of ThIU, Shinohara took a position of the first professor of educational studies there (11 October 1923–29 April 1930). In 1930, he came back to Tokyo to become a professor at the Tokyo University of Literature and Science (Toukyou Bunrika-Daigaku) (30 April 1930–31 March 1941) and at Tokyo Higher Normal School (1930*–1933*). In this period, he worked also in the Ministry of Education as a chief of educational research (16 January 1934–19 June 1937). After World War II, he lectured at Tamagawa University (Tamagawa Daigaku) as a professor (April 1952–1955). He was awarded a Ph.D. degree in Literature by Kyoto Imperial University for his thesis “Essence of Dogma and Pedagogy” on 8 September 1930. He published books on philosophical theories of education and educational history and lexicons of education.

Tsuneo HOSOYA (細谷恵夫, male, born 6 July 1904 in Yamagata Prefecture and died 17 August 1970) studied at the FoL of Tokyo Imperial University (period unknown) and taught at Hiroshima High School as a professor (31 March 1934–25 April 1935). In 1935, he took position at the FoLaL of ThIU and worked as an associate professor (25 April 1935–18 June 1943) and a professor (19 June 1943–31 March 1949). As the result of the reform of the university, he was shortly a professor of the FoL of ThU (1 April–30 May 1949) and then taught as a professor at the newly established BFoEaLA of ThU (30 May 1949–31 March 1951) and at its FoE (1 April 1951–30 September 1955). Hosoya, however, came back to the FoL as a professor (1 October 1955–31 March 1967) and then worked as president of Yamagata University (1 April 1967–17 August 1970, until his death). He was awarded a Ph.D. degree in Literature by ThU for his thesis “Philosophical Study on Human Building” on 31 March 1962. He wrote books such as W. Dilthey and P. Natorp (1936), Cognitive Phenomenology (1936) and Philosophy of Education (1962).

3) In this series of studies, the identified year with unidentified dates taken from university calendars or lists of personnel is mentioned with an asterisk (*). Therefore, the year with an asterisk corresponds to the Japanese financial year that begins in April and ends in March.
4) The study of educational management is an independent research field which owns one scientific society representing one particular sub-discipline nationwide in Japan; however, strangely, the name of the society (The Japanese Association for the Study of Educational Administration) is quite similar to that of one of other sub-disciplines (The Japan Educational Administration Society). Thus in this study, the name of former sub-discipline was translated in other way than the name of the society in order to correspond to its Japanese name.
